How Do Equestrian Helmets and Bicycle Helmets Differ?

Many equestrians have asked what the difference is between equestrian helmets and bicycle helmets.

What's the real difference?

1. Horses are higher off the ground than a bicycle, thus, the ASTM equestrian standard is higher.
2. Height means increased force of gravity when you fall, and increased risk of severe injury.
3. The equestrian standard allows the least amount of stretch in the jaw strap or harness.
4. Equestrian helmets are drop-tested from specific heights, at specific speeds, onto a steel plate... sometimes flat or sometimes a curb-like surface. Equestrian helmets are also drop-tested onto a steel anvil with a 90° angle, meant to simulate getting hit by a horse's hoof, or falling onto the top of a jump standard.
5. Bicycle helmets are designed with the most protection in the front and top, assuming that bicycle riders will take a forward plunge. There is much less protection in the back. Equestrian helmets are designed to protect the front, back and sides of your head.
6. Some bicycle helmets are self-certified, meaning that you take the manufacturer's word that the helmet meets the standard. Equestrian helmets are certified outside of the manufacturing company, ASTM and/or SEI. This insures that should a product fail the standard, the manufacturer will correct the problem or lose their certification.
Always ride using a ASTM and/or SEI certified helmet — if you don't, then you may not be protected effectively.
7. So, if you're riding a horse, wear an equestrian helmet!

BASIC BITS

AND HOW THEY WORK

THE SNAFFLE BIT

THE SNAFFLE WAS PROBABLY DEVELOPED FROM A PRIMITIVE JAW ROPE.

THE LOWER JAW

THE CURB BIT

WESTERN CURB

BRIDLE PRES ON POLL

THE CURB WORKS BY LEVERAGE

SNAFFLE AND CURB BITS ARE USED TOGETHER IN A FULL BRIDLE.

A PELHAM BIT IS AN ATTEMPT TO COMBINE CURB AND SNAFFLE INTO ONE BIT.

MOUTHPIECE PASSES ON BARS AND TONGUE

CHAIN PASSES UNDER CHIN

A SNAFFLE HAS 2 RINGS CONNECTED BY A STRAIGHT, OR MORE OFTEN, A JOINTED MOUTHPIECE.

THE SNAFFLE PULLS MOSTLY ON THE CORNERS OF THE LIPS. IT TENDS TO ENCOURAGE A HORSE TO RAISE HIS HEAD AND STRETCH OUT HIS HEAD. IT WORKS BY DIRECT PRESSURE.

WHEN THE HORSE'S HEAD IS RAISED AND HE IS FLEXED AT THE POLL, THE SNAFFLE CAN ACT ON THE BARS OF THE MOUTH.

A JOINTED SNAFFLE HAS A NUTCRACKER ACTION ON THE TONGUE AND BARS.

A PELHAM IS A DOUBLE-ACTION BIT...

SNAFFLE REIN PULLS BACK ON LIPS

CURB REIN PULLS ON LOWER JAW AND BARS

NEVER USE BOTH REINS AT ONCE!

THE PORT ALLOWS ROOM FOR THE TONGUE AND CONCENTRATES PRESSURE ON THE BARS.

CURB PRESSURE TENDS TO LOWER THE HEAD AND MAKE THE HORSE FLEX AT THE POLL
